

Update on the Zundel Case - and general developments of interest:

A few days ago, we alerted Rense webpage readers to the shameful action of the administration of the Metro West Detention Center who stooped to withholding from Ernst Zundel all of his Christmas mail - as well as a book from his son, meant as a Christmas present.

After we asked the Rense readers to contact the prison administration and to express their outrage, both the book and SOME mail was given to Ernst - with the understanding that he can read the cards but must immediately return them. I had hoped that some of the beautiful art work on those Christmas cards would give my artist husband some small measure of comfort - but no! That's life for you in a Canadian Gulag!

We are still working on organizing protest demonstrations next week (February 4 and 5, possibly also February 7) in various American cities.

So far it looks like these cities are:

Los Angeles
Atlanta
Washington, DC
Seattle
Boston
San Francisco

Still in the works: Either Buffalo or Detroit

I don't yet have final confirmation about where and when these picketing events are going to be, but I learned that at least one Canadian Consulate, listing their address on the Internet as 555 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, told one of the callers that they didn't exist (!) - even though, apparently, somebody did pick up their telephone! Have you ever heard of a Consulate denying its location?

When asked where the next Consulate was, the person on the other end allowed reluctantly that there was a "trade branch" of the Canadian Consulate in San Jose - but GET THIS! refused to give their address.

I was recently informed that there is also going to be a protest demo in Stockholm, Sweden. I wish that more countries would join in this Zundel protest, but we just don't have the organizational strength to make these protest demos a concerted global effort.

In the meantime, Zundel friends are coming up with all kinds of interesting ideas about how to put fire to the toes of Zundel enemies. One lady came up with a personalized postage stamp - a Zundel eagle sketched in prison - but was told that Canada Post did not approve of "German eagles." Another suggested we ought to announce a national Zundel Prayer Day in all the American churches. A third proposed a citizen's arrest - of Judge Blais when he pronounces his sentence!

(Please, folks - don't even entertain THAT idea! Canada is a de facto dictatorship! You'd only end up in a cell next to Ernst!)

In response to Ernst's petition to the Human Rights branch of the United Nation about his illegal arrest, lack of due process and brutal treatment, that agency has asked the Canadian government to please explain themselves - and generously given them six months to do so! Despite some noises to the contrary, you can tell how scared the UN minions are to step on Jewish toes!

On the David Irving page:

You will find all kinds of interesting Holocaust tidbits, including this one: "One in six Canadians believe fewer than 1 million Jews perished in the Holocaust" followed by Irving's gleeful comment: "The great achievement of Ernst Zündel"

In Saxony, Germany, 12 legislators walked out of a session when they were asked to observe that traditional minute of silence for "victims of the Holocaust."

What we need is a global minute of silence for the victims of the Dresden Holocaust!

Don't yet lose hope! The so-called Jewish "Holocaust" is being challenged as a curriculum top dog at least in Illinois. Under a proposal being pushed by two Chicago area legislators, students would have to study all acts of genocide, not just "the" Holocaust as present state law currently requires. The Noisy Lobby, as per usual, is "outraged!"

According to a poll taken by the German University of Bielefeld, 62 per cent of Germans are "sick of all the harping on about German crimes against the Jews". Writes well-known UK reporter, Mark Steyn, in an acid article entitled "Europe has taken over the Holocaust": "The old joke - that the Germans will never forgive the Jews for Auschwitz - gets truer every week."

The Slovaks could teach Western democracies a fine lesson. They are taking steps to decriminalize Holocaust denial. In a general overhaul of the penal code, the Justice Ministry will submit a bill to the Parliament in February that would eliminate any sanction for promoting the view that Jews were not systematically targeted for elimination under Hitler. Justice Ministry spokesman Richard Fides has told the Slovak press that the current ban interferes with freedom of speech.

In a fine act of diplomatic finesse, he told the Jewish Telegraph Agency: "If you start letting people promote the idea of Holocaust denial in a country where most people don't even know what the Holocaust is, you are asking for trouble. Holocaust denial is infectious."

Some belligerent Russians not only complain about the all-pervasive Jewish influence on history, both real and imagined, they band together and act on their disgust. In an absolutely astonishing development, some 500+ name recognition Russians, including almost two dozen legislators, have asked that Jewish organizations be investigated as being harmful and subversive to gentile interests.

Hang on to your seat. The people's revolt against the insufferable brainwashing to benefit the Big H Lobby and shelter it from scrutiny has barely begun!
